^{* &}quot;Revenue" = Revenues from customers, unconsolidated subsidiaries and affiliated companies

Highlights of Segment Information

- Containership: Large increase of profits from previous year, thanks to recovery of freight rates and increased loading volume
 - ← Loading +17%, average freight rate +8%
 - ←- Robust cargo traffic on all routes including North America, Europe, Africa, South America, Oceania, Intra-Asia, etc.
 - Increasing cargo space in step with market growth
 North America: Launched high-speed ships (4,500 TEU x 8) by March 2004
 Europe: Opened additional loops on South China-Europe route
 Others: Opened China-Australia and Intra-Asia routes, etc.
- Bulkships: Profits in all sections increased, thanks to favorable market conditions and fleet expansion

[Car Carriers]

Loading increased (+9%) and vessel operating efficiency improved

← Launched six large car carriers (6,400-unit capacity) during FY2003 and four during FY2004

Bulkships (continued)

[Dry Bulkers]

- Expansion of fleet (core Cape-size fleet +10 vessels, etc)
 - → Increased businesses; elimination of unprofitable sailings due to expensive spot- chartered vessels
- Enjoyed favorable market conditions (compared to FY2003: Cape-size +21%, Handy Max +32%)
- Increased contribution by group companies (Gearbulk, Mitsui O.S.K. Kinkai, Daiichi Chuo Kisen)

[Tankers]

- Expanded fleet with launch of two VLCCs, two Aframax, and seven product tankers
- Both crude oil and product tanker markets showed generally favorable conditions throughout the year, in spite of fluctuations
- Increased contribution by group companies including JVs in China and Middle East)

[LNG Carriers]

- Achieved profit goals thanks to existing long-term contracts
- Five carriers were launched during the year

- Logistics: Profit increased thanks to recovery of air cargo traffic
- Ferry & Domestic Transport: Remained the same as FY2003 Cargo traffic and number of passengers stayed firm, rationalization ⇔ bunker price increased, typhoon, etc.
- Associated Business: Increasing profit as a result of Daibiru Corporation becoming a consolidated subsidiary
 - (Ref.) Effect of Daibiru Corp becoming a consolidated subsidiary (from 27% MOL ownership → 51%)

Outline of FY2005 Forecast

• We project increases in both revenue and income for three consecutive years in spite of steeply rising bunker prices

Assumptions: Bunker price $250/MT (+$57/MT), exchange rate \\ \pm 105/\$ (\\ \pm 2.75/\$ appreciation)

• [Containerships]

Rate recovery, increased loading volume, cost reductions < appreciation of yen, rising bunker price, increasing costs

[Bulkships]

- Dry bulker section benefits from acquisition /renewal of mid- and long-term contracts and launch of new vessels, which continue from FY2004
- Accumulated profits from long-term LNG contracts
- Outlook for dry bulker and tanker markets remains firm despite of fluctuations

[Other four business segments]

- Increasing profit due to Daibiru being a consolidated subsidiary for an entire year
- Plan to pay ¥18 dividend per share Consolidated dividend payout ratio 20% as a criterion in the coming terms

MOL STEP Review

Review & Upgrade of "MOL STEP"
Mid-Term Management Plan (FY2004-2006)

Highlights of "MOL STEP Review"

"MOL STEP" - Mid-Term Management Plan (FY2004-2006)

Main theme "Growth": Aggressive investment in growing ocean shipping market

- → Achievement in the initial year: Significantly exceeded goals
- → Review & upgrade
- 1. Set forth plan for higher level of profit: Ordinary income goals: FY2005 = $180 bil., FY2006 = $190 bil.
- 2. Enhance fleet expansion plan: 287 vessels for FY2004-2009 (← 243 vessels)
- 3. Front-load goals to consolidate financial strength: Goals for March 31, 2007: equity ratio 38%, gearing ratio 80%
- 4. Human resource development to anchor the expansion
